III. Programme Learning Outcomes: What will you learn on the programme?

There are four key areas in which you will develop:

Learning Outcomes: Knowledge
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. All students will have opportunities to study and learn about the discipline of social anthropology: its history, concepts, methods, approaches and diverse sub-fields.</li> <li>2. Students will learn about anthropological theory and the development of analytical approaches in the discipline from the nineteenth century to contemporary ideas, movements and trends.</li> <li>3. Students will study various applications of anthropological theory and ideas to the study of culture and society, on both large and small scales and in a wide variety of global locations.</li> <li>4. Students will have an opportunity to pursue in-depth studies of the society and culture of at least two ethnographic regions in Asia, Africa, or the Near and Middle East covered by SOAS. They will study the history of anthropological interest in those regions and how these inform contemporary social and cultural research agendas.</li> </ol>
Typical Teaching Methods	Typical Assessment Methods
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Students will have the opportunity learn specific anthropological subjects through lectures and seminars, supplemented by directed study of texts/journal articles and by assignment or project work.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Assessment consists of a combination of coursework essays, unseen written examinations, group and individual presentations, and Independent Study Projects.</li> <li>• Assessment methods will require some demonstration of subject knowledge and understanding.</li> </ul>

Learning Outcomes: Intellectual (thinking) skills
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Students will learn to rigorously, critically and independently engage with questions about anthropological knowledge and issues of representation.</li> <li>2. Students will acquire the ability to read and comprehend a wide range of both descriptive and analytic anthropological scholarship.</li> <li>3. Students will learn to discuss and debate anthropological issues in an articulate, informed and coherent manner.</li> <li>4. Students will learn how to frame and present original written arguments with reference to information on societies and cultures and in relation to existing scholarship.</li> </ol>
Typical Teaching Methods	Typical Assessment Methods
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Students will be able to acquire intellectual skills through their participation in teaching, monitoring and feedback in lectures, writing tasks, seminar discussions, supervisions and guidance.</li> </ul>

Learning Outcomes: Subject-based practical skills
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1.
