II. Programme Aims: What will the programme allow you to achieve?

<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To develop knowledge and understanding of the cultural, artistic and intellectual history of Japan from multidisciplinary approaches. 2. To achieve a basic level of competence in Japanese language. 3. To gain in-depth knowledge of a particular discipline, its methodologies and the subject matter. 4. To learn transferable skills in researching topics, and in writing essays to communicate the findings.

III. Programme Learning Outcomes: What will you learn on the programme?

There are four key areas in which you will develop:

Learning Outcomes: Knowledge
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Basic active and passive competence in modern Japanese 2. Advanced competence in a discipline of the Humanities or Social Sciences, especially in its relation to Japan 3. Detailed knowledge of the history, development and current state of Japanese culture 4. Good general knowledge of Japanese history and society
Typical Teaching Methods	Typical Assessment Methods
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Acquisition of 1, 3 and 4 is through small-group classes, tutorials, regular assessed and non-assessed coursework. 	Testing of the knowledge base is through:

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Acquisition of 2 is through modules taught in another department at SOAS. These can be large lecture modules or small-group classes. Acquisition of 4 is through lectures and practical exercises, as well as through dedicated modules in culture and linguistics at various levels. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> written examinations, typically containing both seen and unseen elements; oral examinations assessed coursework; assessed library assignments; essays

Assessment of 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6 is through various types of coursework and research assignments already described above. Encouragement of 1, 3, 6 and 7 is also a key element of the classroom experience, as well as of personal feedback from and contact with tutors.

General statement on contact hours – undergraduate programmes
All full-time undergraduate programmes consist of 120 credits per year, in modules of 30 or 15 credits. They are taught over 10 or 20 weeks. The programme structure shows which modules are compulsory and which optional. As a rough guide, 1 credit equals approximately 10 hours of work. Most of this will be independent study (see https://www.soas.ac.uk/admissions/ug/teaching/). Also included are class time, which may include lectures, seminars and other classes. Some subjects may have more class time than others – a typical example of this are language acquisition modules. More information is on the page for each module.
