The Sir Peter Parker Awards for Spoken Business Japanese was established in 1990 at the suggestion of Sir Peter Parker, a British businessman and one of the ‘Dulwich Boys’ who was chosen to study Japanese at SOAS during World War II.

The purpose of the Awards is to deepen the understanding of Japanese business culture by businessmen and women of the UK and the European Union through the study of the Japanese language, and to contribute to goodwill and mutual understanding with the people of Japan through better communication.

The Sir Peter Parker Awards for Spoken Business Japanese are organised by the Japan External Trade Organisation (JETRO) London, and SOAS Language Centre, University of London. The Awards are widely recognized as having made a significant contribution to the recent growth in the use of Japanese language in business, as well as having benefited participants in their professional careers.

Some of Our Past Prize Winners Say

Graeme Laurence / 2019 1st Prize Winner
Winning the first prize in the Sir Peter Parker Awards enabled me to re-discover Japan, re-connect with lots of friends and colleagues, and to some extent re-live my twenties (if only for a few weeks!), which I spent there. It has also boosted my professional career, which is centred on improving communication between Japanese and European companies. 2020 will be the 30th contest, so don’t miss it!

Jusztina Bukta / 2019 2nd Prize Winner
It is a great opportunity for everyone who is looking for a challenge and something to develop themselves. During the preparation for my presentation, I had to think of the content and the outcome of my speech, how I should phrase my words, and how to present myself. This is something I had never done before and it was definitely a great experience, to stand in front of the public with Japanese professionals and business leaders. I’m very glad that I could expand my boundaries. If you are thinking whether you should attend, don’t even hesitate, just go for it!

Robert Maracine / 2019 3rd Prize Winner
Hey there! Do you like Japanese? Are you passionate about a topic? Well, why not combine them and give it a try by participating in this Speech Contest for Spoken Business Japanese. I myself started participating from three years ago, but this was the first time I ever finished 3rd. I could not have been more ecstatic. There is always a bit, or in my case, a lot, of anxiety involved when going on stage and presenting in front of everyone. But you come out feeling great because you’ve given it your all. Anyone interested should definitely get to experience this!
