This book of essays arose out of the Revisiting Raffles symposium and evening lectures at ACM held in conjunction with the Raffles in Southeast Asia: Revisiting the Scholar and Statesman (2019) exhibition.

Essays by scholars, writers, and an artist – based in Singapore and internationally – explore issues surrounding collecting, colonialism, and writing about the culture and past of Southeast Asia. Overall, the volume offers new approaches and perspectives to Singapore and Southeast Asia's colonial past.

Programme: Structured to match the sections of the book, authors will discuss their essay topics and other issues. Questions from viewers are welcome throughout.

Section 1: Relooking at Raffles: The man and the myth

Section 2: Revisiting and rewriting Malay and Javanese Histories

Section 3: Raffles, ruins, and natural history
